

At The Mall

© 2014 Will Stanley

I've been sitting here for what seems like half a day
Constantly peeking at that door
I can't imagine what is going on in there
I thought it was just a clothing store.

I've tried everything to keep myself amused
Even looking at girls has run its course
I began to reconstruct the Gettysburg Address
And memorize the names of all these stores

And then the door opens and she emerges with a smile
And my whole world starts to shine
She says she's bought some things that are coming into style
But she's sorry it took her so much time.

I tell her not to worry, I had lots to do
And tons of things to think about.
Suddenly she ducks into another door
And once again I sit there, and pout.

Just about an hour later she appears with a smile
And my whole world starts to shine
She shows me the items she just had to buy
She only wishes she had more time.

That's the way it is when you're deeply in love
You just can't get enough of her
You'll wind up doing lots of things, you'd never dream of Anything to hear that sexy purr.

Instrumental

Whenever I see her, I just can't help but smile
And my whole world starts to shine
It doesn't matter that I've been waiting quite a while
I'm so darn lucky, she is mine.
I consider myself lucky, she is mine.
It's worth a little waiting, cuz she is mine.