

Before The Radio Stopped

© 2009 Will Stanley

It was number one, a bullet from a gun
On the charts
Straight through the stratosphere, creating profiteers
On the march.

All the kids heard something special
All their parents heard the devil
Crank the bass, cut the treble
Suddenly the song came to a halt.

The pop star, went pop
The rock n roller fell like a rock
The country crooner sang out of tune
And every hit was a flop.
The day the radio stopped

Buddy Holly knew, Little Richard knew, it would end
If they couldn't make, the profits great, for the moneymen

But still they played power chords
And searched for perfect words
They only got a small reward
But suddenly it all came to a halt.

The pop star, went pop
The rock n roller fell like a rock
No more music, just shock jocks
Every hit was a flop.
The day the radio stopped

Don't you wish we could turn back the clock
Before all radio was talk
We never dreamed it would one day be gone
And that we'd crave a brand new song

Don't you wish we could turn back the clock
Before the radio stopped
Before every hit was a flop
Before the radio stopped
When rock n rollers knew how to rock
Before the radio stopped
When there was music played by boss jocks
Before the radio stopped