

Final End

© Will Stanley 2020

It was an average day, the day I saw her in the Circle K
I tried not to stare, but no way, she had such gorgeous hair
What did you do? I tried to be cool
What did you feel? I knew it was real
What did you think? I needed a drink to calm my nerves

We stood there in line, and I put my trust in love-blind technique
She paid for her gas, gave me a look made me have to speak
What did you say? I think I said hey
What did you do? Blurted out like a fool
What happened next? It's a blur but I got a date with her

Why'd she go away, I really wanted her to stay
Now I sit here deep in the dumps all day
Is she coming back again, so it can be just like back when
We were a team, who shared a dream and then
It came to a final end.

I roam the backstreets at night, trying desperately to find the light
The light you find at the tunnel's end when you're in fight or flight
What happens now? I'm completely freaked out
How do you feel? That life is surreal
What's the result? It just makes me want to pout and sulk.

Why'd she go away, I really wanted her to stay
Now I sit here deep in the dumps all day
Is she coming back again, so it can be just like back when
We were a team, who shared a dream and then
It came to a final end.

Instrumental

Can you find someone new? The thought makes me blue
There's other fish in the sea. Stop humoring me
Look on the brighter side. I'm too bleary eyed from the days I've cried.

Why'd she go away, I really wanted her to stay
Now I sit here deep in the dumps all day
Is she coming back again, so it can be just like back when
We were a team, who shared a dream and then
It came to a final end.