

Forgive And Forget © Will Stanley 2020

E Ab7
I've heard it said that the whole world sings
Dbm Gb7
It used to be just Coke, but now it's everything
E Dbm
My washer croons a little tune
E Dbm
That sounds a lot like Fly Me To The Moon
C B7
And my dryer's not hip-hop, it's put K-Pop

My fridge tells me when it's not cold
And my stove informs, that it's getting old
Even my vac has its own song
So cute I find myself humming along
Which makes me wonder, just where I went wrong

A Gbm
Don't know why I can't forgive and forget
A Gbm
It seems to be a skill that I've not learned yet
Bm E
I'd really wanted her to leave
Bm E
As each tiny flaw became a pet peeve
A Db7 Gb B7
But now I sit here alone and grieve.

I try to write a song to show how I feel
But all the melodies I'd have to steal
Cuz I've become entrapped by the sounds
Of all the gadgets that surround me
And my creativity needs to be unbound

I wish I could forgive and forget
It seems to be a skill that I've not learned yet
That's why she told me she had to leave
She couldn't live without a reprieve
And so I sit here along and grieve.

Bm E7 A Gbm
I never thought a time would come along
Bm E7 A
When I'd be so lonely I'd enjoy the songs
Am D7 G Em
Of smart machines that are devoid of soul
Am D7 G B7
Pathetic copies of rock and roll

Instrumental

I could call her and say I was wrong
And if she'd come back I'd be sure to respond
With love above and beyond.

Maybe I can learn to forgive and forget
I think I need this skill that I don't have yet
Rather than stay here alone and just mope
Always feeling like a big dope
I sense there's a glimmer of hope.

If I can learn to forgive and forget..
