

Global Warming

© 2008 Will Stanley

One look at you and I knew you were hot, a sexpot
I tried real hard to show I was cool, no fool
It took a while but I got a date,
I picked you up, you were looking great
We went to a club that stays open late
    We danced and danced and danced and danced, and had us a blast
    I don't mean to be controversial, when I ask

Wanna add to global warmin'
By heatin' up this summer night
We'll make out until my Chevy Is 115 Fahrenheit.

I know a chill fills the night air, out there
But we'll generate some heat in here, don't fear
The temperature will start to soar
As we light a match, then light one more
In the battle of the sexes, we'll end the cold war
    We can kiss and kiss and kiss and kiss, to excess
    Please don't take offense, when I suggest

Let's add to global warmin'
By steamin' up my Malibu
We won't stop till drops are formin'
On the windows and me and you.

    When you touch me, my ice caps begin to melt
    And my carbon footprint starts to swell
    It may be too late, to cool things down
    And it'll keep on heatin' up, till it's hot as hell. Oh well.

Instrumental

    We'll hug and hug and hug and hug, the entire night
    Like rubbing two sticks together, we'll ignite

Let's increase global warmin'
By heating up my back seat
I hope you find, it's heart-warming
When you feel the flame in me. As we Contribute to global warmin'
By steamin' up my Malibu
We won't stop till drops are formin'
On the dashboard and the mirror and the windows and me and you. In my Malibu. You and me. Heatin' up my Chevy.
