

How to Love Again

© 2014 Will Stanley

I hate being lonely, and all on my own
I wish I had someone, to share this home
But I'm not sure I'm able, to open my heart
But even though I'm discouraged, I'd like to make a start

I've been hurt by others, time and again
But I keep searching, for a lover, who can

Show me I can learn how to love again
For the first time since I don't know when
Each time I try, it becomes a dead end
Still I'm hoping I can learn how to love again.

They say nothing's sadder, than a man who's deep blue
Without companionship, and no one to talk to
And I hate to admit it, but I have to agree
Cuz this guy they refer to, is no one else but me.

I can blame what I want to, even curse the stars above
But one thing for certain, that won't help me find love.

And I need someone to show me how to love again
For the first time since I don't know when
Every time I've tried, it's been a dead end
Still I'm hoping I can learn how to love again.

Bridge: I've heard that there's someone for everyone
There's no one who can't find a mate
If that's the case, my search someday will be done
If I can get over this heartache.

Instrumental

Why can't I simply, ignore what is past
And convince myself, that the next one will last.

I need someone to show me how to love again
For the first time since I don't know when
Next time I try, it won't be a dead end
And I'm hoping I can learn how to love again.
Yes, I'm hoping I can learn how to love again.
How to love again.
