

It Feels Like Love

© Will Stanley 2018

One look at her and I knew that I was sunk
I felt my heart pounding in my chest
I was light headed as if I was good and drunk
If I could have her, I knew I'd be blessed.

So I started to conspire, to see what I could do
And I began to pray to the one above
I felt myself perspire, as if I had the flu
I may be obsessed, but it feels like love.

I started planning the ways to win her heart
Beginning with a giant bouquet
Then I'd send her texts that showed that I was smart
She'd hear from me both night and day.

Cuz I had to make her see me as more than just a guy
I knew all it would take is a little shove
She's the most perfect woman, that can't be denied
Don't tell me I'm obsessed, cuz it feels like love.

I began to send her notes professing my love for her
Till she decided enough was enough
But I couldn't prevent myself from wanting her
Even if she called me completely nuts.

Cuz whatever I tried, I couldn't make her see
That I had found what I was in search of
I was devastated, oh woe is me
I may have been obsessed but it felt like love

Cuz whatever I try, I can't make her see
That I have found what I'm in search of
I am devastated, oh woe is me
I may be obsessed but it feels like love
