

Life's Not Fair

© 2015 Will Stanley

I completely agree, life's not a piece of cake
And sometimes you just can't get buy a break.
And sometimes when you give your best, you still fail the test.
And it's tempting to blame, every single little thing
That you can name
But here's what you can do
Before you get all stressed, and obsessed.

Take a good long look at yourself
And make sure you see the truth
It may be you've got what it takes
If you need more proof
I'll explain how you
Can find the answers to all your prayers
You don't need to believe
Life's not fair.

Let's be honest, you've had advantages galore
Yet you wish for more
And human nature is such, ya can't have too much.
Still you deserve to finally accept
You've got assets
Don't let part time complaints
Become a crutch as such.

When I look at you I clearly see
A person who's got gifts
But if you feel the deck is stacked
And you've got gypped
You're well equipped
For life up in the stratosphere
So you don't need to believe
Life's not fair.

It's amazing, that one so blazingly talented
Could think they're a loser and refuse to Believe they'll get ahead.