

The Lightningbolt Kid

© 2012 Will Stanley

As a kid I was always a challenge
And I drove my folks right up the wall
I'd always act like I knew it all.

When they asked me to clean my bedroom
I'd say "I've got important things to do
And I'll get to it, when I'm good and through."

You see I'm trying to save the planet
And I've got no time for your pettiness
I need to hurry up and get dressed.

In these duds I may look real strange
But without them, I'm not equipped
To complete my mission as humanity's gift
No myth, I'm the Lightningbolt Kid.

As a teen it didn't get better
In fact, it may have even got worse
As I wanted to zap an occasional jerk

There was always a damsel to rescue
With a lightning bolt from the blue
I'd give her a kiss and say, "It was the least I could do."

I was trying to save the planet
By helping pretty girls in distress
It may have been all in my head, just mental BS

I was afraid to look too strange
And without those clothes, I wasn't equipped
To fulfill my mission as humanity's gift
No more myth of the Lightningbolt Kid.

Maybe I had let my mind run wild
And my imagination was out of control
But one look at you, and your sexy smile
Makes me think that I'm still a superhero brave and bold.

Now I don't care about the planet
You're the girl I want to impress
One flash of my eyes and I hope you'll say "yes."

I know I may look real strange
But without these duds, I'm well equipped
To fulfill my mission as your personal gift
No myth, I'm the Lightningbolt Kid.
Yes, I'm the Lightningbolt Kid.
The Lightningbolt Kid.
