

The Name Game

© 2008 Will Stanley

I always liked Bobby Sue
And I love that song about Mary Lou
You're partial to Billy Joe
I'm opposed to Fabio
Frances can swing either way
Gertrude and Gus have seen better days
Tiffany, Bethany, Brad and Tad
Once were cool, but now are drab

They say the name can define the man
And every guy wants the perfect monogram
It can make or break, determine flop or fame
That's why it's such a pain...
The Name Game.

Brett implies that he'll be smart
But a Bart's mood always will be dark
Serena must excel at sports
And Sandra will sit on the Supreme Court
Biff plays croquet on the lawn
And Buffy's a debutante wearing chiffon
Madison, Addison, Jordan and Sam
Could be a woman or a man.

They say the name can empower the girl
And allow her to conquer the world
It can make or break, determine flop or fame
That's why we've been wracking our brains
In the Name Game.

What a conversation we've had so far
Even though we've just shared our first beers
But I have an inclination this is just the start
Cuz we're acting like we've been married for years

They say the name can define the child
And determine if they're mild or wild
It's taken all night, but we've agreed on some names
So let's quit this game,
Let's make Shane. Or Jane. Shane or Jane. Enough Name Game.

